VILLAGE OF SKANEATELES

175th Anniversary

The Village of Skaneateles celebrated their 175th Anniversary with a celebration dinner attended by approximately 200 people at the Skaneateles Country Club. The following history of the Village was prepared and presented by Village Historian Patricia Blackler.

On April 19th – the Village of Skaneateles, the day in 1833 that we were incorporated as a Village, separately governed from the town. But April 19th is also a day well known in the country. It is Patriots Day. “On the 18th of April in '75, hardly a man is now alive that remembers that time and day and year and the Midnight Ride of Paul Revere.” In Massachusetts today it is a state holiday. To go further, it was Daniel Kellogg’s birthday—one of our first settlers; a wealthy jurist from Massachusetts who lived on the corner of Onondaga and East Genesee Streets. His portrait now hangs in the Bank of Auburn of which he was president. A portrait painted by the well-known portrait painter, Charles Loring Elliot; also a one time Skaneateles resident.

Twenty five years ago today we celebrated our sesquicentennial, the banquet was held at the old country club while eight inches of snow piled up outside-April 19th mind you. There are a lot of people here who remember that night-the DPW was busy pulling out cars in the parking lot.

The 150th sesquicentennial was a year long celebration, chaired by David Chase and Mrs. Blackler’s predecessor historian Don Stinson. They and their committee produced a wonderful souvenir booklet filled with old pictures, write ups, and stories of events of the history of Skaneateles. Historians use it as their “Bible” – a complete and concise history of our village. All who love Skaneateles should have one on their bookshelves.

Today the Village and the Fire Department (they also share this memorable year) are celebrating the QUARTO-SEPT-CENTENNIAL. Now that is quite a word!

Looking back on the last 25 years, (since 1983), we’ve accomplished much. We have a new Fire Station-a new school building-a new post office-the Creamery Museum (which is now going to expand)-the Packwood House-the Thayer House (both named after early residents)-the expansion of the Stone Mill (and preservation of the old building)-the Creekside Bookstore-the S.A.V.E.S. building-the Athenaeum-a new Genesee Street Bridge-the Gazebo (given to us by David Chase during the Sesquicentennial, dedicated to his wife Margaret)-and of course the Skaneateles Community Center.

Let me close with a quote from a speech by John Dodgson Barrow, an artist we have always claimed as our own, whose work can be seen at the Barrow Art Gallery. This is the end of a talk he gave to the Village of Skaneateles on the day that the Centennial of the United States was celebrated.

“It is not ours to begin but the hard task to carry on faithfully what they began, and while we today pledge ourselves anew that the great work shall still go on, that no measures of our fathers’ work or hope shall fail. Let is not be said of us that we let the shadow of time go backward, or that we were even willing to leave our heritage as we found it. Let us especially remember the beauty of our lake and its shores, and resolve, that present beauty, and in some measure at least, the restoration of the old shall ever be in our thoughts and among the constant and zealous efforts to our lives. May we all do something to this end, so that in another hundred years, our successors shall meet together and rejoice, and thank us for what we may have done for the pleasure and honest pride in their lives; when Skaneateles Lake shall be, as nature intended it, the loveliest and the most alluring of all our inland waters.” July 4, 1872

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATIONS

VILLAGE OF FLORAL PARK 100th Anniversary

The Village of Floral Park located in Nassau County, is celebrating 100 years of Incorporation. The Village was founded in 1908 by seed catalogue entrepreneur John Lewis Childs whose flower and vegetable fields once blanketed the area, thus the name Floral Park. Today, the Village is home to almost 16,000 residents.

As part of a year's worth of activities to celebrate the Centennial, the Village recently hosted a grand parade followed by an old-fashioned fair. The parade was led by the famous Clydesdale Horses and featured many bands, neighboring fire departments, antique vehicles and homemade floats.

VILLAGE OF SANDY CREEK 130th Anniversary

The Village of Sandy Creek, the first Village to Incorporate in Oswego County, will be celebrating their 130th year of Incorporation this summer. A full story will appear in the next issue of the Bulletin.

2008 Fall School Planning Session

On March 14th Lou DiDomenico, Dan Borchert and I represented our Association at the NYCOM/OSC Fall School Planning session held in Albany. The meeting was attended by the NYCOM staff, State Comptrollers Office and representatives from the Finance Officers Association.

Several days prior to the meeting, detailed summary reports of the 2007 Fall School were sent to us in order that we were prepared to offer suggestions and ideas in an effort to improve the 2008 session. The areas that were used in determining the overall value of a class included: the topic, length of the class and presenter.

Each class from the 2007 session was reviewed and ranked as to their overall educational value. In some cases classes will be combined in order that maximum amount of education can be provided.

62nd Annual IIMC Conference – Atlanta, GA May 18-23, 2008

Shawn Cullinane, NYSACVC IIMC Liaison

Approximately 750 delegates from across the United States, Canada and 14 nations from around the world attended this year's conference. An excellent program of educational sessions, as well as social activities, were prepared by the Atlanta Conference Committee, comprised of Atlanta City Clerk Rhonda Dauphin-Johnson, the Georgia State Clerks and the Clerks of IIMC Region III. Particularly well received were the four General Sessions, each featuring a dynamic and engaging motivational speaker. In addition, a wide variety of educational classes on records management, finance and audit, personnel management, ethics in government to leadership training, customer service, computer training, and more were presented throughout the week.

Once again, the Opening Ceremony was a dramatic event, featuring a parade of flags from all participating states, Canadian provinces and foreign nations. The keynote speaker was former UN Ambassador Andrew Young who encouraged Clerks to be part of the process of "... turning red tape into a red carpet ..." in our dealings with local constituents and the business community. A surprise appearance was made by American Idol winner and Atlanta native Ruben Studdard who nearly brought the house down with his all too short musical presentation.

Our new President is Dyanne Reese, Clerk of Council for the City of Savannah, Georgia, who will serve until May 2009. In addition, for the first time, the election of Vice President was conducted by mailed ballot only. Adopted last year as a Constitutional amendment, this process now empowers the entire membership to be involved in the election of our leadership, not just those that attend the annual conference each year. Sharon Cassler, Clerk of Council for the City of Cambridge, Ohio was elected over Ronny Frederickx, City Secretary of Essen, Belgium and will ascend to the Presidency of IIMC in May of 2010.

During the Conference, each of IIMC's 11 regions held a separate meeting. The Region I meeting was conducted by Region Directors Linda Cohen of Maine and Bernice Dixon of Connecticut who reviewed the activities of IIMC during the past year at length. In general, IIMC appears to be stabilizing its financial condition after several years of concern. Our membership total continues to be stalled at just over 10,000 as it has been over the past few years. One of the major concerns raised by a number of individual clerks was the continuing frustration they have been experiencing with the processing of their CMC applications by IIMC headquarters. Others have had problems receiving the MMC credit they were expecting for certain educational sessions. Our Region Directors stated they would be working hard to help resolve these matters.

On a personal note, I am honored to have been selected by outgoing President Chuck Tokar to be one of five members to serve on the newly organized IIMC Ethical Standards Committee.

Finally, it is a pleasure to announce that during the Opening Ceremony former Region I Director Pattie McCoy, MMC, Town Clerk and Treasurer of Poultney, Vermont was awarded the prestigious IIMC Quill Award. The award is presented to those members of IIMC who have demonstrated a long and distinguished record of service to the clerk's profession, their fellow clerks, their State and or regional associations and to IIMC. Pattie is truly a worthy recipient of this award. She becomes the 8th person from Region I, and the first since 2000, to receive this honor. Congratulations Pattie!

Next year's Annual Conference will be in Chicago, IL, May 19-23.
